About the Cover

The Schizophrenia Bulletin features art done by current and former mental hospital patients. The painting that appears on the cover of this issue was done by Philip Kurz. The artist has provided us with the following description of his artwork:

I believed that everything within me and around me was passing through my blank mind and my arm onto the paper. I felt that keeping a blank mind was important to the success of the painting, and this was relatively easy to do since it approximated my normal state. This feeling all seems outlandish now.
